Definitively, Delorean are hitting the dancefloor. Their path from "Silhouettes" (Underhill, 02), through "Delorean" (Bcore, 04), belongs to a band in constant search of the strain between the organic and the synthetic, a strain showed in their New Wave influences of their debut, joining the coldness of neon with the warm of human heartbeat. With this release (four new songs with almost same title plus their corresponding remixes), boys from Zarautz, reinvent themselves to define their particular sound, achieving the most balanced combination of drums (Igor), bass (Ekhi) and guitars (Tomás) with analogic keyboard (Unai) and the dance rhythms they offered us to date. Ekhi's voice takes the whole to the climax, breaking the inflexibility of quarter note bassdrum, and spitting his "more meaningful than before" lyrics out. Such achievement makes them truly connoisseurs of the metropolitan club culture, from a punk youngsters' perspective. A band who get tired of guitar thickness, to go deep in dance, house, trance and night life. With first division dance duos like Undo & Vicknoise, DJCoco & Bombjack, D.A.R.Y.L, Montreal and Karlos Phazer, Delorean conquer the dancefloor from dawn till the morning light.
