

Release Date: 18th November 2014

Recommended Singles:

1. Idéntico
5. Nain

MARGARITA

MARGARITA

Tracklist:

1. Idéntico
2. Ciclos
3. Color
4. Crucero Punk
5. Nain
6. Coge un trapo y cúbrete

Selling Points:

- Produced by Sergio Pérez (Svper, Joe Crepúsculo)

- First album in 4 years and since Explota tu Cuerpo (BCore 2014)

- "It's not only fascinating: it invites you to act, to pull down all the walls that cave you in. To come out and embrace life. To burn and shine"

Rockdelux

After four years of silence, Margarita are back in town with a shiny new EP. Six songs that contain the bands best to the day, everything they have gained from rocks irrationality and pops stasis. A vibrant world, where their post-hardcore beginnings are colonized by psychedelia, catchy melodies and expansive euphoria. Here, you will come across every element that has made them transcendent: Spasmodic breaks, impossible harmonies, a steady pace and that intensity with punk substrate.

For this album, the complicity with Sergio Pérez (Svper, Joe Crepúsculo) was crucial. You can see how Sergio has understood his task and managed to polish that sharp and strident sound the band from Villaviciosa de Odón have us used to. The final result is marvellously well levelled: The harsh and the soft, the deep with the acute.

Maybe because of this they have named the EP with their own name: "Margarita". As if, after years of searching for the right songs, they'd have found them, songs that define them perfectly, that culminate a process that started quite a few years ago. Whatever it is they do (noise tropical, psychedelic core or whatever you wish to name it), it is true that nobody sounds like them. Solid and powerful, but with a catchy pop manner and loads of positivism. Unique.

Artist: MARGARITA
Title: Margarita
Label: BCore / Chingaste la Confianza
Ref: BC.265
Format: 10"
Style: Noise Tropical.
Release Date: 18th November 2014